ANIMATED SHORT FILMS IN LANGUAGE CLASSES: WHY & HOW?

A close-up, top-down view of a large quantity of white, fluffy popcorn. The popcorn is densely packed and fills the entire frame. The lighting is bright and even, highlighting the texture and individual pieces of the popcorn. The overall color palette is warm and neutral, dominated by the off-white and light beige tones of the popcorn.

A PICTURE IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS

inappropriate ads on YouTube

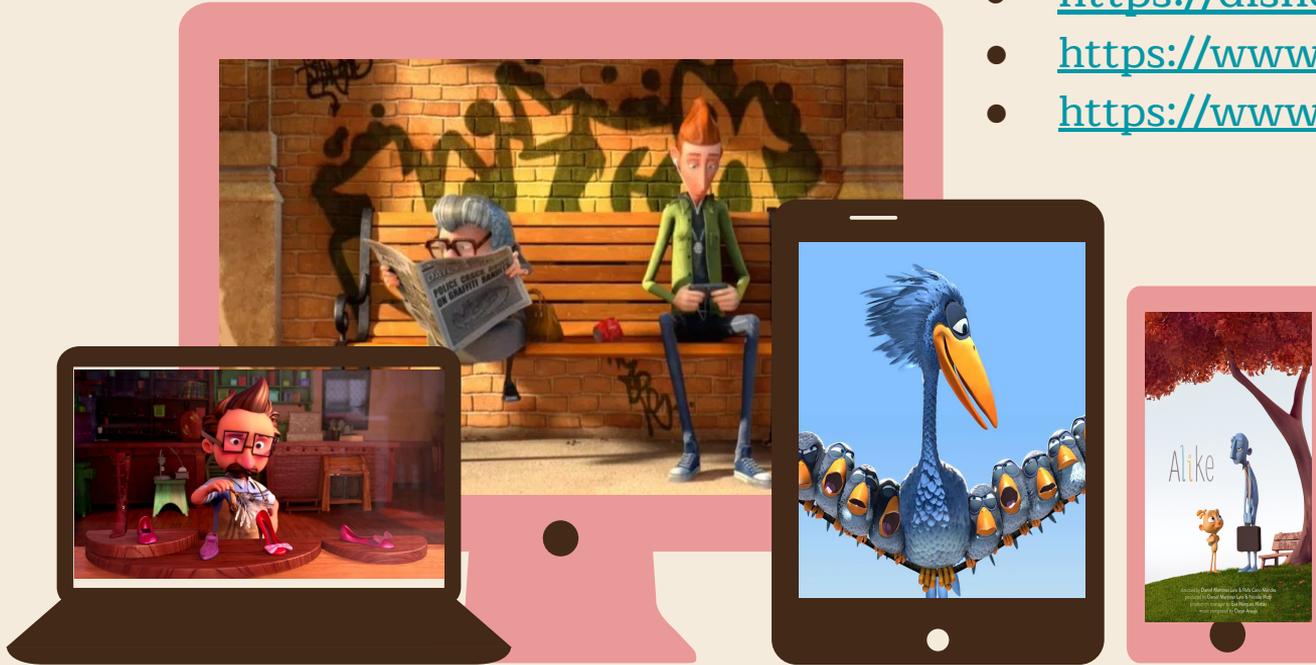

TIP!

“Try to generally aim for videos that are about 2 to 10 minutes long. Two minutes usually allows for a single topic to be explored with enough depth for you to work with, while 10 minutes is enough to have grabbed learners’ attention and enable back-and-forth conversation discussing what was viewed.”

Short Film in Language Teaching – Online Course

a 3-week futurelearn course on using films in ELT

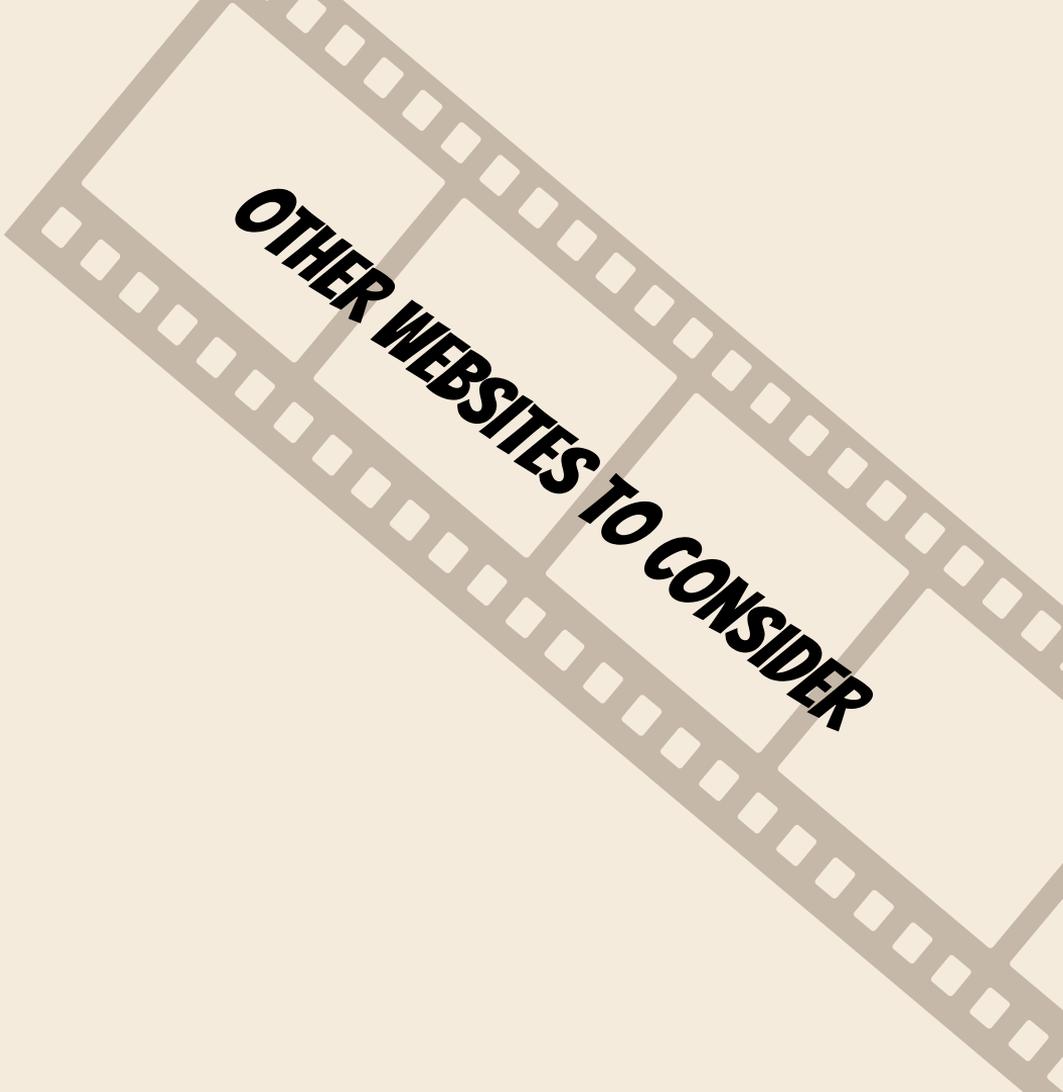

WHAT ABOUT A MOOC IN USING SHORT FILMS IN LANGUAGE TEACHING?

The screenshot shows the FutureLearn website interface. At the top left is the FutureLearn logo. Navigation links include 'Subjects', 'Courses', and 'Using FutureLearn'. A search bar is present with the text 'Search online courses'. There are 'Sign in' and 'Register' buttons. The course title 'Short Film in Language Teaching' is displayed, along with the 'BFI INTO FILM' logo. A star rating of 4.8 (58 reviews) is shown. A brief description states: 'Find out how teaching with short film can bring alive the learning of languages and introduce rich cultural content to lessons.' A 'Join course for free' button is at the bottom left. On the right, a video player shows a teacher pointing at a whiteboard displaying a film still with French subtitles and a question in French: 'Ton opinion sur la réaction de Zarka et ses amis?' and 'Zarka dit: 'porter mon foulard, c'est ma foi, mon identité!''.

OTHER WEBSITES TO CONSIDER

“Film in itself will not transform learning - it needs to be thoughtfully brought into learning situations, using the “appropriate “ kinds of approaches”.
